Murder attempts charged

An 18-year-old Georgetown woman was in an Austin hospital Friday and a man reported to be her estranged husband was held on attempted murder charges after the woman was struck by an automobile in front of the Westside Intermediate School on Thursday afternoon.

MARTHA ELENA RODRIGUEZ of 609 W. Seventeenth St., a junior at Georgetown High School, was listed in serious condition at Brackenridge Hospital after surgery Thursday night.

Manuel Gutierrez, 23, of Round Rock, was held in Williamson County jail on $20,750 bond after he was charged with three counts of attempted murder, one of failure to stop and render aid, and a felony charge, driving while intoxicated.

Police impounded a 1967 Oldsmobile coupe which they suspected struck the woman.

They also charged Gutierrez with the attempted murder of Martha Rodriguez, and of Yolanda Barerra, 11, and Taresa Cabio Rodriguez, 12.

The girls, both students at the Northside Middle School, were uninjured.

According to witnesses, the three were walking east on West Seventeenth about 3:50 p.m. Thursday when a car turned in that direction from Scenic Drive.

They said the vehicle proceeded the wrong way on the west-bound street and pursued Martha Rodriguez and the two girls.

THE WITNESSES SAID all three fled, but the car pursued them south onto Bridge Street, then southwest across a vacant grassy area in front of the Westside School.

Martha Rodriguez reportedly stumbled and fell, was struck by the car when she got up, rolled across the hood, and fell off. She then was allegedly run over by the car.

Witnesses said the vehicle then drove from the grassy area back north onto Scenic and disappeared west on University Avenue.

Police found the 1967 Oldsmobile parked just east of the San Gabriel's south fork about 4 p.m.

The Rodriguez woman was taken by Williamson County ambulance to the Georgetown hospital, where she was treated and transferred to Brackenridge.

Acting on witness identification, police searched for Gutierrez. They found him about 4:45 p.m. at St. Helen's Church, 505 W. Timber St.

JUSTICE OF THE PEACE Bill Hill set bond at $5,000 for each charge of attempted murder and for the charge of failure to stop and render aid. He set bond on the DWI charge at $750.

Police said Gutierrez and Martha Rodriguez were married but separated. They said the younger Rodriguez girl, also of 609 W. Seventeenth, was the victim's niece.

School records showed Martha Rodriguez had withdrawn from school at an undetermined date, and had re-entered as a junior only February 2.

Chandler expects ax

Donald Chandler, head football coach and athletic director at Georgetown High School, says he was told this week he will not be recommended for that position during the 1976-77 school year.

Chandler said he had been offered some other position in the Georgetown school system, but was uncertain whether he would accept the offer.

IN A FRIDAY INTERVIEW with the SUN, Chandler said he was called into the office of School Supt. Jack Frost about 4 p.m. Monday, where Frost said he would not recommend renewal of Chandler's coaching contract to the school board.

"Mr. Frost and James Hundley (high school principal) just told me I hadn't done a good enough job and said they wouldn't recommend my contract be renewed," said Chandler.

Frost would neither confirm nor deny Chandler's statement. "Any statement on my part at this time would be premature, in fact ridiculous," said Frost. "I have never announced a recommendation to the public before I announced it to the school board. I can't say a word before Monday night."

The school board will meet at 7 p.m. Monday and is scheduled to consider contract renewal for professional personnel, including Chandler and coaches Jim Spencer, Steve Turner, and Price Minter.

Contracts for all four coaches expire May 30, leaving open the possibility of a wholesale turnover in the high school coaching staff.

FROST SAID Chandler's statement was premature. He also pointed out that the school board had not voted last February to renew Chandler's contract beyond 1976.

Minutes of the February 17, 1975 board meeting showed approval of a motion to extend Chandler a one-year teaching contract for the 1976-77 school year.

GEORGETOWN VOLUNTEER FIREMAN soaks the blackened roadway along Williams Drive where a February 3 grass fire broke out between Fables Restaurant and Pic & Pac grocery. Wind gusts blew the fire across the pavement to start two smaller fires just north of Williams Drive. Fifteen volunteers took two fire trucks to answer this call, using 200 gallons of water to insure that the fire was completely out.

Firemen stress caution to prevent grass fires

The 40 volunteer firemen of Georgetown handled 26 grass fires out of a total 36 fire runs made this year.

The figures compare to only eight grass fires handled during January, 1975.

FIRE MARSHAL Curtis Anderson attributes the increased number of fires not only to the current drought, but to the hard freeze which last year killed tall grass in the area.

Since the scanty 1.76-inch rains of December, less than 4 inches of rain have fallen in Georgetown. January 20 saw .05 inches and January 25 brought another .28 welcome inches of rain, but in February only .04 inches of rain have been recorded, all on February 5.

In addition to the tall, dry grasses so susceptible to flame, however, Anderson says, "Carelessness in burning stuff is a big problem. Ad a little wind and it doesn't take very long..."

Trustee elections head GISD business

Discussion of the school board election and filing deadlines will come to the attention of the Georgetown School Board Monday night at its regularly scheduled monthly meeting at 7 p.m.

The election, scheduled for April 3, will be held to fill Dr. Douglas Benold and Robert F. B. "Skip" Morse positions on the board. Neither Benold and Morse have filed for reelection.

Filing deadline is March 3. J. L. Akridge is the first to file for election.

Ernest Lincoln, executive director of the City of Georgetown Housing Authority, will present the school board with a check in lieu of school taxes for the year 1975.

Architects for Brasher-Goyette-Rapier consulting architects and engineers of Austin will be present to discuss the progress of the classroom addition at Westside Intermediate School and the final inspection of the new high school.

The final inspection of the high school is set for February 23-25 with the architects, contractor and Superintendent Jack Frost to go over the entire school so that any discrepancies can be taken care of before the one year warranty period ends March 23.

The board will consider contract renewals for all professional personnel in executive session.

Monday Holiday

Federal, state and county offices will close Monday in observance of Washington's birthday.

With postal office windows closed, no city or rural mail deliveries will be made. First class mail and newspapers will be put in post office boxes Monday, however, and one mail delivery to the Austin station will be made. Pickup time in Georgetown for the Austin delivery is 2 p.m.

Banks and savings institutions will be closed, as will the county courthouse.

Monday is not an official Chamber of Commerce holiday, however, and few area stores are expected to be closed.

BUT THE GEORGETOWN area has been lucky so far, volunteers agree.

First, the fires seem to be slacking off. Only four of the total 26 grass fires, occurred in February.

And none of the fires have been serious, either covering great acreage or causing loss of life or property. Anderson says there have been no large grass fires, that all have been small and pretty well contained.

YET THE TOTALS are, as volunteer fireman and Chamber of Commerce manager Gene Martinka says, "up over last year quite a bit."

"January was probably worse than any month we had in '75," volunteer Leslie Bunte adds.

ANDERSON ADVOCATES citizen awareness to help reduce the number of grass fires experienced during the dry weather.

Many rural residents burn their trash in an open area near their homes, he says. "The most important thing is to keep the fire in the container."

Anderson advises putting mesh wire on top of the container used for burning trash, to keep sparks from starting a grass fire. "Or wet the ground outside the container, or clean it off — at least till we get moisture," Anderson advises.

"The main thing is just be careful."

"How's business?" I asked Harold Parker, one of our leading real estate and residential developers. "Wonderful!" he exclaimed; adding, "If we can just keep that same city council of Austin in office, we'll have it made!" There does seem to be an out-flow from our Capital City, whatever the reason.

My New York daughter, Linda, will be back in Georgetown Tuesday night, to stay a full month, lending a hand in the SUN editorial department. She has caught up with her free-lance writing assignments, husband Hiram is in the final weeks of his study for a Master's Degree in Corporate Tax Law with little time for anything else except his job, so she feels free to take a month at home to satisfy her curiosity — how it feels to work full-time at the SUN in the old home town!

SO, STARTING in our next Sunday Sun, our readers should be seeing signs of her labors. Linda has been gone, except for vacations, from Georgetown for the past 12 years and, while many of the people she knew and loved are still around, a lot has happened and much has changed.

Cross your fingers, if you are a Pirate fan, and hope the Pirates can win big games this weekend. They play Seguin Lutheran College Saturday night and St. Mary's in San Antonio Monday night. If they lose one and win one they will be co-champs of the Big State Conference but will be forced into a play-off, probably in Austin. A double win would give them the whole apple and two losses would put them into a tie for second place, which is better than we had dared to hope for when the season began.

We've been talking about names for lakes in recent issues, did you know there is a Lake Scarbrough in Coleman County? You can find it in the index of the latest Texas Almanac, right under Scalawags, no connection.

I don't mind running this type of unsigned letter, but I do wish it had borne the signature of the writer:

"We were residents of Austin while attending the University of Texas some time ago. We liked the area.

"TO BE NEARER to our children we recently explored the New Braunfels, San Marcos, Austin and Georgetown areas and something here seemed to fit together. It must have been the friendly reception, civic pride, appearance, lack of "rat race," Southwestern University and the general homelike atmosphere.

"We haven't been sorry we moved to Georgetown.

"Incidentally, fishing possibilities around here also had an influence."

Week's news in a nutshell

Taylor was shaken this week by the prospect of having to spend $250 thousand to correct a high fluoride content in its drinking water, courtesy of the Federal Environmental Protection Agency. Fluoride causes teeth to become chalky, although it is also said to have beneficial effects. Prior to 1946 many Taylor kids had the trouble and parents of very young children purchased bottled water for drinking during the formative years. In 1946 steps were taken to correct the problem and in recent years there has been little concern. In the light of this, the edict that Taylor does, indeed, still have the problem and will have to spend a bundle to correct it was an unwelcome surprise.

SHERIFF AUGUST BOSSHARD says the county is having a rash of thefts of citizens band (CB) radios from automobiles and urged car owners to take precautions. "It only takes about 60 seconds to get this equipment off a car, which makes it extremely difficult for any police system to combat it effectively," he said. Careful attention to serial numbers and other means of identification of the equipment will be a big help in getting it back if it is stolen, he pointed out.

The Patty Hearst trial continues, with everyone involved calling each other liars. Another dimension to this weird case popped up Thursday when the magnificent Hearst mansion at San Simeon, California, was bombed, causing estimated $1 million damages.

While Taylor was concerned with its water content, Round Rock city dads were planning a sale of water to Brushy Bend Park, Inc., a move questioned by Round Rock West residents who complain their water pressure is too low. Mayor Ray Litton apparently has the answer, however, explaining that revenue from the sale will permit the city to build needed facilities to take care of the pressure problem. Round Rock is now in the process of applying for $98,942 in Community Development Act funds for paving and drainage in the Flats section of that city.

A woman in Houston sold her baby for money to buy heroin and then participated in a series of robberies to raise money to buy it back. The father was said to be "shocked" at the revelation. Henry Kissinger is also shocked by "revelations" and is in a head-to-head confrontation with the House Intelligence Committee, accusing it of taking part in "a new form of McCarthyism."

Elections for a new mayor and two councilmen for Georgetown will be held April 3, the City Council confirmed Monday night.

Down to bedrock

There come times in the life of every country editorial writer when he has even less to say than usual, a predicament that has at this moment descended upon us.

But, this is a space that must be filled.

HAVE YOU NOTICED any of the new-style bumper stickers, 'specially those on pickups? One around town this week said: "Read the Bible. It'll scare the hell out of you." Another cautioned: "Tithe if you love Jesus. Anyone can honk."

Billy Cook, down in Rockdale, claims his marriage was made in heaven. Just like thunder and lightning. Also, he admits — us newspaper types are accused of writing too much bad news. "Could be, because I've only known one optimist and he was illiterate."

A serious note on Coach Don Chandler, who apparently won't be at the helm of the Eagles next year. We have had coaches who posted better records than he did in his two years but we haven't had a finer gentleman around these parts. Everybody likes and respects Don and hopes he continues to make Georgetown his home. He and Judy and their fine children are an asset to our community.

Aren't you enjoying the Olympic Games? TVing has improved this month, which reminds us that famous men born in February include Charles A. Lindbergh, watercolorist Winslow Homer and three presidents: George (I cannot tell a lie) Washington, Abe (Honest) Lincoln and William Henry (forgotten) Harrison.

Modern America has canceled Washington's Feb. 22 birthday and made it a floater, President's Day, to all on the third Monday of each February (Feb. 16 this year). The movable birthday gives a 3-day week end to people lucky enough to get a Washington holiday.

TEXAS AND FOUR other states observe the third Monday in February as Lincoln-Washington Day.

Who remembers that in February, 1971, astronauts Alan B. Shepard Jr. and Edgar D. Mitchell made the third U. S. moon landing? Shepard and Mitchell, that's who.

On Feb. 25, 1956, a white Leghorn hen laid a 16-ounce egg at Vineland, N.J.

To many people, February may seem only a grim slice of winter wedged between Christmas bills and income tax.

But it is also a time of renewal.

At the Williamson County courthouse, renewal of automobile license tags began Feb. 2.

So far this year February has been good to golfers and a horror to farmers and ranchers who are suffering from prolonged drouth. The South Gabriel is beginning to wonder if it going to run out of gas, and it will pretty soon unless we have a freshet. The North San Gabriel still seems to be running strongly. This is the month that almost always produces sharp contrasts in the weather, running from hot to cold, from dry to wet and sometimes icy. Up to now it has just been from hot to hot and dry to dry. The almanac predicts 2 inches of rain for this month, but the "signs" aren't good at this point-in-time.

Finally, the politicians are all around us. Remember the old statement that nothing makes a politician's statements harder to understand than his clarification?

Stuart Long Austin Notebook

By PATRICK CONWAY

AUSTIN — Solar heating is today a commercial reality and it is the number one answer to America's fuel needs in this century.

That is the scientific opinion of a man who has lived in a solar heated home for 18 years and is this year's recipient of the prestigious $25,000 Lyndon B. Johnson Foundation Award.

Dr. George O. G. Lof of Colorado State University predicts that residents of oil and gas rich Texas will soon join their neighbors in other states in turning to the sun for residential heat.

In 25 years, Lof said, the manufacture and installation of solar heating equipment will be a multi-billion dollar industry. Lof said approximately 200 buildings around the nation now have solar heating systems, but by the end of the year he expects more than 1,000 to be heated by the sun.

And each year that number will expand, he said, until the heat supplied by several million solar heating systems will then replace a hundred million barrels of imported oil worth more than $1 billion.

Lof says of the many possible uses for solar energy, the heating of buildings and water is the most advanced and the most competitive with fuels.

"Until recently, the deterrent to the use of solar heating has been the high cost relative to the price of domestic fuels," Lof said. "Although operating costs of a solar system are negligible, the amortization of a $5,000 added investment in a typical house is a sizeable annual expense, nominally about $500 a year."

With recent gas heating costs in the $200 to $300 annual range, there has been no incentive to use solar heat, Lof said. But with annual heating costs now approaching $500, and in electrically heated homes $1,000 to $2,000 in many localities, the savings of three-fourths of these costs is becoming very attractive.

The results of such economic studies have stimulated several manufacturers to enter the commercial market for solar heating equipment.

Practical systems are available which require the use of glass-covered panels on part of the roof and a small space for overnight heat storage. An auxiliary heater supplies warmth when necessary — usually about one-fourth the annual demand for space heat and hot water.

Lof believes the generation of electricity from solar radiation is another prospect, and while there are technically workable systems, their costs are so high that solar electricity cannot compete with conventional sources until the costs of oil, coal and uranium increase greatly.

"Solar electricity therefore cannot have an early impact on America's oil imports, only the vigorous development and application of solar heating of buildings can have a major effect on America's fuel needs in this century," Lof said.

"It is therefore in the nation's best interests that funds needed for a massive program of solar heating and cooling development and demonstration be used for these purposes and not prematurely diverted to very costly, speculative, and economically questionable solar power projects having little prospect for use in this century," Lof said.

Canadians fence off TV violence

By Phil Gibson

A Conservative provincial government is promising to bring the troublesome question of media violence to heel.

Set up conjointly with a study of hockey violence last fall before the government of Premier William Davis narrowly won reelection, the Ontario Royal Commission on Violence in the Communications Industry is focusing on TV blood and thunder.

The commission accepts the existence of an undesirable link between television violence and real crime. Already researchers have assembled nearly 2,500 studies of the crime-media relationship from throughout the world. The commission has held 10 hearings; it plans 30 more. It has received 100 formal briefs in its short term of office.

The public has been enthusiastic about the commission's work, both in participating and in supporting the call for controls. Commissioners have been warning the media that public support for some form of censorship is growing.

A typical complaint is concern over U.S. networks shipping to Canada violent children's cartoons that they have dropped from their own programming schedules.

Commission chairwoman Judy LaMarsh, who is a broadcast journalist, law professor, and former federal Cabinet minister responsible for broadcasting, points to French, Swedish, and Mexican interest in limiting imports of violent U.S. television shows.

This is not to say that the commission's attention is riveted on the U.S. or solely on television. Miss LaMarsh is concerned by the lack of input from communications industry executives. She says her group is prepared to subpoena newspaper publishers, television producers, and film distributors if they do not volunteer their expert testimony.

Briefs and submissions have come in from across the country, indicating, perhaps, frustration with a lack of interest from other governments — both provincial and federal. In Ottawa, federal politicians are prone to devote more time to discussions of the language used on the CBC than to the impact of celluloid murder and mayhem on society.

The nationally owned Canadian Broadcasting Corporation (CBC) took some tentative steps toward self-control — like striking the Cannon series from its lineup last year — before the commission was established. Much of the CBC's programming is produced in Canada, and the home-grown material is generally tamer than the imports.

The privately owned CTV network and a small regional hookup in Ontario have been slower to respond. They rely on pre-packaged and frequently more gory U.S. programs for guaranteed ratings and huge savings.

Miss LaMarsh and her fellow commissioners, a family court judge and a Toronto newspaper columnist, may not achieve all they want. One big impediment is that communications is a federal responsibility, and the commission is a provincial creation.

Besides, a substantial percentage of Canadian TV viewers is reached directly by U.S. border stations.

However, the commission is amassing what may be the most thorough body of evidence on the subject of media violence ever assembled in Canada. It is a hard act to ignore.

More Iranian Oil?

WASHINGTON — The Shah of Iran is putting the squeeze on the United States. His oil sales have dropped more than 1.5 million barrels a day. This is costing him around $4 billion a year in revenues that he had anticipated but isn't getting.

So the Shah is upset. He has brought quiet diplomatic pressure on the State Department to compel U.S. oil companies to market more Iranian oil. Otherwise, he has threatened to cut back his purchases of U.S. military equipment and nuclear reactors.

It is doubtful that the State Department can force the oil companies to produce more Iranian oil that they cannot sell. The sales have fallen off because of conservation measures and mild weather.

However, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has always tried to appease the Shah. Kissinger wants to encourage American companies, therefore, to market more Iranian oil.

But his colleague in the cabinet, Secretary of the Treasury William Simon, would rather encourage American companies to reduce their Iranian production. This would give the United States more bargaining power, he has argued privately, to force the Shah to reduce oil prices.

Imported Labor: Thousands of faceless men and women and their anonymous children constantly move with the harvests, stopping only long enough to pick a crop and to earn enough to subsist until the next stop. They are the migrant farm laborers, who help make America the best-fed nation in history. Yet they themselves are often undernourished.

At least 4,000 of these pickers, according to a Florida manpower survey, were eager to work in the fruit orchards of the East Coast last fall. They desperately needed the money.

But Virginia apple growers somehow persuaded the Labor Department to let them bring foreign fruit pickers into their orchards. The Virginia growers imported 978 Jamaican workers to pick their apple crop. This may have saved them a little money, but it deprived hungry American migrant workers of jobs.

Why would the Labor Department discriminate against American workers? We can only point out an interesting coincidence. One of Virginia's largest apple growers happens to be the powerful Senator Harry Byrd. We have determined that the H.F. Byrd orchards hired 180 Jamaicans to pick their 1975 crop.

A spokesman told us that the Senator's brothers make all the business decisions. But whatever the circumstances, the Labor Department chose to be kind to the Senator rather than to the jobless migrant workers.

Sky Spies: Secret intelligence reports claim that the Soviets are using Cuban airstrips to spy on U.S. naval movements. The latest report states that two huge Soviet turboprops landed in Havana on January 23. Along the way, the planes conducted surveillance of our East Coast.

This was the 22nd time since April, 1970, that Soviet military planes have flown to Cuba. Each time, they have engaged in aerial spying. They photograph U.S. Navy ships in ports in Virginia, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida. From Cuba, the Soviet planes also fly reconnaissance missions into the south Atlantic.

Invariably, the Soviet planes are picked up on U.S. radar. U.S. interceptors rush up to meet them, and often fly alongside them, snapping pictures. Sometimes, the pilots exchange signals.

These Soviet flights, of course, demonstrate that Cuba can be used as a military base. There is no evidence, however, that the Soviets have constructed permanent military facilities in Cuba.

Poor Little Rich Lady: Imelda Marcos, First Lady of the Philippines, was named by Cosmopolitan magazine last December as one of the ten richest women in the world. This is quite an achievement for a working girl who was a bank receptionist only a few years ago. Then she married Ferdinand Marcos, and he became President of the Philippines.

Their sudden rise to riches, however, is not a story they want to advertise in the Philippines. They didn't want to censor Cosmopolitan magazine. That would only have attracted attention to the story and would have led to bad publicity.

So the Marcoses quietly arranged with their rich friends to buy up all the copies of Cosmopolitan as fast as they hit the Philippines newsstands. Thus, the magazine disappeared from the newsstands overnight — before they could reach the people in the streets.

Crime War Outback: In the early 1960s, the late Attorney General Robert Kennedy turned the Justice Department's big guns against organized crime. But lately, the investigation of organized crime has been lagging.

The number of days spent in the field by organized crime investigators, according to our sources, has been cut in half. And the number of court briefs filed by government lawyers in organized crime cases has been cut considerably.

Now, we have learned, the Justice Department is secretly preparing to eliminate the special strike forces which were established to fight organized crime. Their work will be turned over to the local U.S. Attorneys. Many Justice Department officials disagree with the proposed policy. They fear it will further weaken the government's battle against the crime syndicate.

It is not an election year for David Boren so this evaluation of his fledgling administration as governor of Oklahoma has no partisan overtones.

Most politicians seek election with promises of fiscal frugality which, when elected, they soon forget.

IT'S REFRESHING — midst so many examples of mismanagement of public money — to discover Oklahoma.

Private enterprise has made our nation the powerhouse of this planet, yet we are gradually backsliding toward government snoopervision of everything.

Approximately half of all the new jobs created in the United States these past 10 years were government jobs. Government spending will soon consume 60% of our total GNP.

Our nation's youngest governor, David Boren of Oklahoma, 34, has impressive credentials. Son of a congressman, honors graduate of Yale, Phi Beta Kappa, Rhodes scholar with a master's degree in government from Oxford — with honors.

At Oklahoma University Law School he was the outstanding graduate in his class.

So — a Republican state elected this Democrat governor with the biggest turnout in that state's history.

What happens when academic theory confronts political reality?

SO FAR, SO GOOD.

During 12 years before Boren, Oklahoma's state payroll had grown from 27,000 persons to 42,000.

This year, for the first year ever, state employment is down.

This year, for the first year, a limit on new hirings has been written into all appropriations bills.

This year, Oklahoma has reduced the number of welfare recipients by 9,000.

Whereas 10 of our 50 states are taking a bath in red ink, Oklahoma's constitution — reinforced last summer by a 72% majority vote — forbids spending beyond income.

Oklahoma, in this one year, has established a savings account of $20 million, paid off $30 million in bonds, early, and reduced income taxes for the first time in 27 years.

Oklahoma expects a remaining $80 million in bonds to be paid off and the state totally debt-free within three years.

Such administration encounters monumental frustrations. FEDERAL GOVERNMENT, which should be encouraging and emulating this example of fiscal responsibility, tends instead to fetter it.

Oklahoma's facilities for caring for the mentally retarded have received national recognition awards, but Washington says they do not meet "government specifications."

Washington says half of Oklahoma's rural hospitals will be shut down unless half their doctors give their total time to evaluating how the other half are doing their job.

So far, with waivers and promises of waivers, Oklahoma is keeping Washington's professional warriors at bay — while an uncommon young governor shows us all the way to restore solvency to the system.

Florence death ruled suicide

A Florence man, Joseph H. Jackson, was found dead February 9 at the Cedar Valley Cemetery near Florence. Killeen Justice of the Peace Jerry Scarbrough ruled the death by gunshot as a suicide. Scarbrough ruled the death at the scene at 3:20 p.m.

Survivors include his wife, Jacquelyn, and six children, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Jackson of Salado, three brothers, Norman, and Jimmy of Salado, and Larry Jackson of Killeen, and two sisters, Miss Kathy Jackson and Mrs. Gary Gasper, both of Temple.

Pest Management applications climb

The Williamson and Milam County Pest Management Program will be off to a good start in the near future. Application forms have been coming in steadily ever since the program was initiated. Acreage applications have varied from as little as 25 acres all the way to 510 acres on one application. Up to this point, the majority of the acreage applications have been for cotton. There have been, however, substantial applications for grain sorghum.

The Pest Management Program is designed to provide the cotton or grain producer with the insect information necessary to make insecticide application decisions. This program allows the farmer to carefully monitor the insect situation in each field on his farm. Scouting reports will include information such as number of thrips, aphids, spider mites, cutworms, armyworms, bollworm larvae, cotton fleahoppers, boll weevils, and beneficial insects in each field. In addition, plant fruiting data such as average number of squares, bolls, white blooms and red blooms will be provided. This information is invaluable in making insecticide treatment applications.

It is not too late to pick up an application at the County Extension Office in Georgetown or Cameron. All producers are reminded that applications must be in by February 20th.

Di-Syston on Wheat: Read the label! The label for Di-Syston was modified in June of 1975 and now states: "Do not graze treated fields after any application of Di-Syston Liquid Concentrate."

Homeowners and Gardeners: A new label has recently been cleared for the control of snails and slugs. The product is Big Geta Snail and Slug Pellets. The product may be used on ornamentals, lawns, fruits, in greenhouses and in vegetable gardens. The product contains 3.25% Metaldehyde and should be applied at the rate of 1 pound per 1,000 square feet area.

Apply evenly to soil surface and sprinkle lightly with water. Treatment may be applied at 2 week intervals. Do not apply to foliage or contaminate edible plant parts. This material is toxic to birds and wildlife. Keep out of reach of children and pets. For additional information check the label before use.

Akridge announces GISD board candidacy

J.L. AKRIDGE

Agency will not conflict with my eligibility to serve on the board since it is not a decision-making position.

In announcing my candidacy for a position on the Board of Trustees of the Georgetown Independent School District, I should like to state that I am not running "against" any person who might become a candidate in this election but I am running "for" the position as I feel this is an opportunity for me to be of service to the youth in this community. Furthermore, I should like to state that I shall never seek office on the merits of any person... if I am not worthy of the office I seek, then I should not be elected. I hope I never lose sight of the fact that there will be other people to seek this office who are good people — people with families, feelings and ambitions... but, I would rather lose a clean and respectable race than to reap a shallow victory through slander, bigotry or mud slinging.

I have decided to become a candidate on my own accord and for the sole purpose of furthering the educational opportunities for the boys and girls in this community. Therefore, my platform shall be based on the following:

1. Policy-making: I believe that the Board of Trustees is a policy-making body and the school administrators are to implement the policies adopted by the board. Because of my firm belief in this principle, one of my first concerns will be to abolish the hair code that has been such a divisive issue in our school system. This will allow our administrators to concentrate on providing a first-class educational system and at the same time the students can concentrate on learning in a relaxed atmosphere.

2. Taxes: Since H. B. 1126 has placed undue financial burdens on local school districts, I believe every effort should be made to trim or to cut local expenditures before raising taxes to support the school budget. Also, I am in agreement with Attorney General John Hill's ruling that all curricular fees previously charged to students should be paid by the local school district. Based upon my previous experience as a school administrator, I feel confident that I will be able to analyze a budget to determine whether or not an increase in local taxes is warranted.

3. Construction: As a board member, I will never vote for a recommendation by an architect that places a board in a compromising position with the contractor. The architect is the board's representative and should represent the board in dealing with the contractor.

4. Athletics: I feel there should be a complete re-evaluation of the entire athletic program. Also, I favor a joint city-school summer youth recreation program.

5. Curriculum: This is an area that continuously needs upgrading and should always be a top priority of the school board. I promise to work toward the goal of achieving academic excellence in all phases of the curriculum.

I have lived in Georgetown since July 13, 1968 at which time we moved into our home at 1611 Mimosa. My wife, LaVada, is a remedial reading teacher in the Georgetown Public Schools. Since she has been in the system for nearly eight years, her tenure has been established which will not conflict with my eligibility to serve on the board. We have two daughters, Cindy and Cathy. Cindy is a senior and Cathy is a freshman. We worship at Crestview Baptist Church where I serve as a deacon, adult Sunday School director, and Church Training Director. I am very active in the Georgetown Evening Lions Club having served as president and secretary; also, I have served as a zone chairman and deputy district governor of District 2-S3. I am currently serving as vice president of the Tennis Association of Georgetown (TAG).

Before moving to Georgetown, I served two years as an elementary principal, nine years as a high school principal, and 11½ years as a superintendent. I am currently employed by the Texas Education Agency as a consultant in the Division of Compensatory Funding. My position at the Family unit topic discussed Monday

The Williamson Association of Baptist Churches met Monday evening, February 9, at the Texas Baptist Children's Home in Round Rock for a Valentine Banquet.

Program for the evening included the viewing of the movie, "Where There Is Love," which tells about life in the children's home.

Speaker of the meeting was Judson Edwards, chaplain of the children's home. He spoke on the "family unit."

I do not have the finances to expend for a public relations campaign. Therefore, I must depend on you, the citizens, to promote my candidacy. I will appreciate your vote and support at the polls on Saturday, April 3, 1976. I believe we need "a school man for the school board."

Sincerely,
J. L. Akridge

SU students earn $1,000 to donate

Southwestern student pledges have been covering lots of miles to raise money for the proposed Georgetown Area Hospital, as well as the Mary Bailey Child Development Center and the Sweetbriar Nursing Home in Georgetown.

Fifteen Kappa Alpha fraternity pledges biked 50 miles, earning $600 for the new hospital. Bikers circled through Circleville, Granger, Weir and Walburg, then returned to Georgetown.

Pledges of the Zeta Tau Alpha sorority walked five miles down Hutto Road and back to raise approximately $400 for the Mary Bailey Child Development Center and Sweetbriar.

A group effort, the walkathon success was enhanced both by the help of about 30 Zeta Tau Alpha members who canvassed Georgetown for donation pledges for the walk, and by Phi Delta Theta pledges who operated aid stations along the route, plying weary walkers with cookies and punch.

Pirates drop non-conference game to Sam Houston State

But most attention for the Southwesterners has been focused for weeks on two games this weekend.

Saturday night, February 14, the Pirates played Texas Lutheran College in Seguin.

Tomorrow night (Monday) Southwestern travels to San Antonio to take on St. Mary's Rattlers.

At press time this weekend both TLC and St. Mary's were tied for second place in the Big State Conference, one game behind Southwestern with its 9-1 league mark.

The pressure, says Pirate Coach John Edwards, is not on Southwestern.

"The pressure is still on them," he says.

"We're still on top and they've both got to beat us. If they lose they are out of it, but we could afford to lose one of the games and still gain a tie for the championship."

St. Mary's and TLC also both have to play each other on February 21 in Seguin. That game also could have a large bearing on the conference race.

Edwards feels that the usual homecourt advantages will be equalized in the two games by the type of offense used by the Pirates.

"The type of control game we play makes it easier. We can play as well on the road as at home and I am confident we can win both of those games," Edwards was quoted in an Austin American-Statesman story Thursday.

"Before the loss to East Texas Baptist (65-60 last Saturday) I felt we would only have to win one of these last two games, but now we need them both."

"It's a difficult situation, but after all, we weren't even supposed to be in the race at this stage of the season. St. Mary's was the big favorite and now they've got to beat us and TLC to win it, so I feel the pressure is definitely on them," Edwards said.

The remarkable situation of being in the conference lead has brought a number of double-takes from basketball watchers in the Southwest. The turnaround from an opening record of seven straight losses into a winning season prompted a special interview for Edwards by KLRN-TV Wednesday evening.

In that interview it was pointed out that:

—Not a single player now on the team played at Southwestern last year.

—The team is the outgrowth of a late recruiting start by Edwards, who was hired near the end of the 1974-75 school year.

—Edwards inherited one of the toughest small college schedules in the country including such powers as Oral Roberts, Baylor, Southwest Texas State, Sam Houston State, Angelo State, Dallas Baptist, and Hardin-Simmons.

And now (pending the results of Saturday's game) the Bucs along with at least two bus loads of fans will be traveling to San Antonio Monday with the chance to either win the conference outright or at least to tie for it.

TLC had to beat the Bucs Saturday night or be eliminated from the race. The Bulldogs played Southwestern close in Georgetown three weeks ago before losing in overtime 74-70. The Pirates whipped St. Mary's (then ranked sixth nationally) 49-30.

"The win over St. Mary's was a big one for us," Edwards said. "I knew before the season that it would be tough to beat them because they play the same type of control game that we do — work for the good shot and use a disciplined defense."

"But when we played them here we knew what they were going to do and our players were able to adjust to it and shut them off."

"We beat them once and I don't feel they will do anything differently Monday night," Edwards said. "The game this next time probably won't be as low scoring but it should be about the same kind of game as gotten better each game." The Jim West Gymnasium at Southwestern had held only scattered crowds in recent years, but almost from the start of this season the stands have been packed with wildly cheering supporters.

Filling even one bus of boosters, let alone two, would have been an unheard of feat for the Southwestern campus a year or two ago.

"Regardless of how we do the rest of the way, I am very proud of this team," Edwards says.

"They are probably the best team I've ever had in that they have gotten the most out of their ability. They have done a great job."

Sam Houston State University gave the Southwestern Pirates a non-conference defeat in Huntsville Thursday night as the Bearcats avenged an earlier loss to the Pirates.

In a game that was close all the way, the Huntsville gang cashed in on free throws to win 66-63.

Kenny Dennis, Southwestern's hustling forward, did not make the plane trip to Huntsville because of a case of flu.

Tommy Johnson had another hot night as the Hutto sharpshooter hit nine field goals for 18 points. Joe Buchanan had 12 for the Bucs while Georgetown's Steve Doering had 10 points, several of them scored in the frantic final minutes.

Cockrell had 20 and Holcombe 18 for the Bearcats. The loss dropped the Southwestern record to 14-12 for the season.

before." Should the Pirates go on to win the Big State Conference, they will meet the Lone Star Conference champion in a best-of-three playoff for the right to advance to the NAIA national tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

The first play-off game would be on the home court of the LSC team with the BSC team getting the next two games.

However, since Southwestern's gym does not seat the required minimum of 1,500 for a play-off game, the Pirates would have to find a neutral site. Gregory Gym in Austin has been mentioned as a possibility, as well as the Georgetown High School Gym (which would need some additional chairs to boost its capacity up to 1,500).

Edwards praised the crowd support the Pirates have had this season.

"Our fans have been a definite factor in our success," he says. "They've been somewhat like our team—they have developed strength and

Schwertner club

A NEW 4-H CLUB IS BEING ORGANIZED IN SCHWERTNER. A meeting was held Tuesday at the Schwertner Community Center to discuss organization. Mrs. Maidene Lawler and Mrs. Lana Reese are going to serve as leaders for the club. Sixteen youth attended the meeting and expressed interest so it looks like Schwertner 4-H is on its way. Another meeting is set for Tuesday, Feb. 17th, to elect officers and make plans for programs. Anyone in the Schwertner area who is interested in 4-H should attend on the 17th.

ALL WILLIAMSON COUNTY 4-H HORSE CLUB LEADERS are urged to attend a meeting on February 16th at 7:30 p. m. in the Festive Room of the First National Bank, Georgetown. At this time, Dr. Bill Jackson, 4-H and Youth Specialist, will discuss "How to organize, plan and work with 4-H Horse Clubs." We will also use this meeting to make plans for the 1976 Williamson County 4-H Horse Show.

WILLIAMSON COUNTY HAS THREE 4-H CLUB MEMBERS who will be participating in the Calf Scramble at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition Saturday night, February 21. Cass Winterrowd of the Thrall 4-H Club; Kendall Krienke of the Round Rock 4-H Club; and Ricky Ging of the Granger 4-H Club; will be among twenty boys scrambling for ten calves. A purchase certificate will be issued to each of the ten boys catching a calf. All Purchase Certificates must be used in the purchase of livestock which must be used as the boy's 4-H Club project.

PLANS ARE BEING FINALIZED FOR THE SECOND ANNUAL TEXAS 4-H LEADER FORUM to be held April 7-10.

This will be at the Texas 4-H Center in Brownwood.

An educational experience with lots of fun and fellowship awaits 4-H leaders who participate in the Texas 4-H Leader Forum. Two outstanding speakers will keynote Thursday and Friday mornings general assemblies. Discussion groups and workshops will permit leaders to exchange ideas with others from across the state. Friday afternoon will be devoted primarily to discussion and organization of a State 4-H Leaders Association including election of officers. Many additional activities are being planned. Participants will return home with renewed dedication and vigor which will strengthen the 4-H program.

Registration for the Forum is due in March. For further information contact the Extension Office.

POINTING TO A BIG YEAR are these four Southwestern University Pirates, all of whom won all conference honors last year with their strong bats. Left to right are Joe Farr, who hit .338 last year; Jim Miller, who led the team in rbi's with 34; Kenny Wenzel, who scored 32 runs; and Frank Rodriguez, a great clutch batter who hit .396. The Pirates open their season Friday against Jarvis Christian College at 1:30 p. m. in San Gabriel Park.

Men sponsor youth gardeners

The Austin Men's Garden Club of America is sponsoring a Youth Garden Program for age groups 8 to 18.

There will be four $25 gifts for best vegetable garden, best flower garden, largest sunflower and best collection of gourds.

Gourd, sunflower seeds and entry blanks are available from Felix O. Melburn, 1703 Olive Street, Georgetown, 78626.

The $3 entry fee entitles the gardener to receive each issue of The Gardener magazine, free garden literature, a better environment booklet, membership card and membership ribbon.

The MGCA hopes to have youngsters producing entries for the county fair.

Any boy or girl is eligible to enter the program.

AGE 8-10
The child may select one of the two projects. With adult supervision he must prepare his ground, plant his seeds, maintain his plants, and write a brief report on his project and the results. Photographs required for regional and national competition produce will be judged locally for possible entry into regional competition.

Project A: A flower garden, not less than 100 square feet or more than 250 square feet. All flowers to be grown from seed, cultivated and cared for by the youngster.

Project B: A vegetable garden, set up as Project A, except that tomato, cabbage, pepper, eggplant or other garden plants may be used from a commercial source.

AGE 11-15
Any youngsters may select one of the two projects; with adult supervision he must prepare his ground, plant seed or plants, maintain the garden, and write a 500 word report on his project and the results. Photo requirements as above.

Project A: General garden, flower, vegetable or mixed, not less than 150 square feet or more than 500 square feet. Record to be presented regarding soil preparation, planting dates, germination dates, cultural techniques, problems and results.

Project B: Plant Specialty Study. The youngster to select not more than two of the below-listed specialties, item. He will keep detailed records, as in Project A.

Specialties: tuberous begonias, dahlias, gladioli, delphiniums, primroses, daylilies, tomatoes, cabbages, cucumbers.

AGE 16-18
Any youngster may enter a research project based on horticulture in this class. The project should be written up as an experiment, stating the aim of the project, defining the experimental work, citing all results, and summarizing, with a logical conclusion. For example, it may be an experiment testing various rooting hormones, or various ways of making a compost pile, or of controlling diseases or pests. The subject may be clearing horticultural.

More realistic weigh-in dates have been established for more equitable contests. Giant pumpkins and giant sunflowers will now be just that — no more variety names. Participants will be permitted to use any variety or hybrid and be eligible.

Southwestern hosts science career day

A day to learn more about "Careers in Science" will be held at Southwestern University at Georgetown Saturday, February 21.

The meeting will be held from 9:30 a.m.-3 p.m. in room 100 of Fondren Science Hall.

On the program will be speakers from the areas of biology, chemistry, mathematics, computer science, and physics. There will also be representatives from such professions as engineering, medicine, pharmacy, dentistry and allied health sciences.

The panel of speakers will be composed of Southwestern University graduates in the areas of science and mathematics.

Not only are interested

Southwestern students invited, by any other interested person will be welcome, said Dr. Ralph Whitmore, chairman of the Science Division.

"We already have about 100 high school juniors and seniors who have registered along with several high school counselors," Dr. Whitmore said.

Freshmen Rhonda Thomas, a 1975 graduate of Burnet High School, is on the list of distinguished honor students at McLennan Community College in Waco for the 1975 fall semester. Miss Thomas, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Travis L. Thomas of Georgetown, is a recreation major.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY DOORBUSTER COUPONS

Liberty Hill NEWS

BY HOWARD N. WILSON

The work on the buildings on Main Street downtown Liberty Hill is progressing steadily. These two buildings will house a movie theater and a bakery, with space for other businesses upstairs. We feel sure that there are plans of which we are not aware, so we will wait and see. We feel sure these new ventures will be a successful addition to downtown Liberty Hill.

The work on the new residential sub-division is started, and we can look forward to seeing new homes under construction in the near future. This new housing development will certainly enhance the charm and desirability of our great community.

The Liberty Hill Garden Club met last Wednesday, February 11, with twenty members in attendance. John Wakefield and the assistant agent, Ed Wilkie, both of Georgetown, were the guest speakers. The topics on which they spoke included pruning, types of fertilizers and the use of insecticides. This information is very timely since planting time is near. Everyone is aware that rain is badly needed, so the club members agreed that prayer for rain should be uppermost in the minds of everyone.

The Garden Club Members discussed the upcoming landscape workshop which will be held in Round Rock from 7-9 a.m. February 25 and 26. The location for this meeting will be the new vocational building at the new Round Rock High School. On July 2, there will be a fair in Georgetown at which many of the Garden Club members will show off their vegetables.

We sincerely appreciate getting the news about the Liberty Hill Garden Club from their publicity chairwoman, Dean Cluck. Dean, as you probably know, is the owner and operator of "The Hair Smith," and her shop is very attractive to go along with her outstanding personality!

We were pleased a few days ago about a visit from Wayne Loman, a bright young man with the aspiration to become the Constable of the Georgetown precinct.

The Liberty Hill High School varsity girls played their last basketball game for the year in Lago Vista last Tuesday evening, February 10. The hometown girls ended the season on a winning note in a game that ended with them on top by 51 to 42. Diane Williams scored a very impressive 35 points, while Debby Bohanan, made 6 points, Shirl Holder made 5 points, Kellie Weems got 4 points, and Rhoda Bohanan made 1 point. The Liberty Hill guard, Cynthia Williamson, Janice Satterwhite and Kellie Weems turned in a commendable performance.

Sheri Strobot was the leading scorer for Lago Vista with 25 points; Debby Lambright made 9 points, Kellie Vancleave and Jill Green each made 4 points.

The Liberty Hill Band Parents will sponsor a Chili/Sausage Supper on Saturday evening, February 21, from 6-8 p.m. in the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria. In addition to the chili sausage supper the menu will include ice cream and cake; the price for this supper will be 75% for adults and 50% for students for the chili supper, while the price for the sausage supper will be $1.50 for adults and $1 for students. Homemade ice cream and cake will be available at an extra charge. There will be live entertainment, and everyone is invited to come bring his family — you might as well bring your friends too. We can all have a good entertaining evening while contributing toward the enrichment of the Liberty Hill Band Program.

Please consider yourself reminded of the next scheduled meeting of The Panther Booster Club to be held in the Liberty Hill School Gym at 7 p.m. February 21.

The Liberty Hill Girl Scouts will be selling their cookies for a couple of more weeks. The little ladies will make themselves easy to find so be sure to get some of their good cookies. If you can't find a scout you can contact Pat Spencer at 778-5833; they will appreciate hearing from you. The proceeds from the cookie sale will be used by the girls to go to camp this summer.

The menu for the Liberty Hill School Cafeteria for February 16 through 20 reads as follows: Monday — Barbecue on a bun, salad, potato chips, fruit and milk; Tuesday — Cheeseburgers with lettuce, tomatoes, pickles and onions, French fries, cherry delight cake and milk; Wednesday — Baked chicken, corn, English peas, ice cream and milk; Thursday — Fried fish, French fries, slaw, Polynesian treat and milk; Friday — Smothered steak, mashed potatoes, green beans, hot biscuits, cookies and milk.

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow wisely said, "It takes less time to do a thing right than to explain why you did it wrong."

Johnson discusses stage goals

Ken Johnson, director of Center Stage Theatre in Austin, will speak at Southwestern University at Georgetown Monday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Student Union's faculty lounge.

The informal discussion will cover Johnson's professional background and future goals, career opportunities for drama majors, the theatre and the Austin theatre scene.

He will also go into the topic "How to Stay Involved in Theatre After Graduation." A leading figure in Austin community theatre, Johnson has recently remodeled the old Ritz Theatre on Sixth Street in Austin to serve as the new home for Center Stage.

His most recent productions have included "West Side Story," "Godspell," "Deja Revue" and "Macbeth" which is opening this month.

Any interested person is invited to attend Johnson's lecture, which is sponsored by the residence programs department at Southwestern University.

Van Johnson opens at playhouse

VAN JOHNSON crashes into his second big week as star of the hilarious Broadway comedy "Send Me No Flowers," at the Country Dinner Playhouse on F.M. Rd. 1325, south of Georgetown.

George Kimball (Van Johnson, center) tries to put all his personal affairs in order through his best friend and lawyer, Arnold Nash (Bob Moak, left). A former classmate, Bert Power (Stephen Bradbury, right) complicates the situation by his amorous attentions to George's wife, Judy. It all takes place in the hilarious Broadway comedy, "Send Me No Flowers," now at the Country Dinner Playhouse.

Court finalizes 118 cases during January

With 268 criminal cases pending in Williamson County Court at the beginning of the year, 118 dispositions and 109 added cases slightly lowered the total to 259 criminal court cases pending at the end of January.

The 118 criminal dispositions in January compares to 62 criminal cases disposed of last January and 59 dispositions made last month.

OF THE 98 cases disposed of through pleas of guilty of no contumacy, 54 were made in DWI (driving while intoxicated) cases, 10 in worthless check cases, 19 in involving possession of marijuana and 15 in other criminal cases.

County Judge C. L. Chance disposed of 5 cases through findings of not guilty: 1 DWI and 2 each worthless check and marijuana cases. Another criminal case was disposed of when the jury decision was "not guilty."

The 14 dismissals included 3 each DWI and worthless check cases, 2 marijuana and 6 other criminal cases.

DWI CHARGES comprised nearly half the 109 criminal cases added to county court dockets during the month of January. Fifty-three DWI, 19 worthless check, 13 marijuana and 20 other criminal cases were filed in January, with an additional 4 other criminal cases added on appeals from lower courts.

IN THE CIVIL ARENA 22 new cases were added to raise the total of 118 civil suits pending January 1 up to 127 cases pending at the end of January. The additions included 4 debt suits and 18 other civil suits filed during January.

Dispositions for the month included 8 through default or agreed judgments; 2 in auto damages/personal injury suits and 6 in other civil suits. The total 13 dispositions were additionally comprised of the dismissals of 1 debt suit and 4 other civil suits.

In December dispositions of 7 civil cases were effected.

IN JUVENILE COURT 1 case was pending at the first of January and 2 new cases of children in need of supervision were added during that month. Three findings of delinquency or need of supervision resulted in no cases pending at the end of January.

One probation of a delinquent was granted, as was probation for 2 children in need of supervision.

Including mental health cases, 28 probate cases were also filed in Williamson County Court during the month of January.

The Youth League of the Zion Lutheran Church in Walburg will sponsor a cleanup marathon beginning at 10 a.m. February 21. They will begin at the church and pickup trash along FM 972 and FH 1105. Their goal is 10 pickup loads. Proceeds from their sponsors will go into the youth center building fund.

In 1948, Mississippi became the 48th state to enact workers' compensation legislation, according to the U.S. Labor Department's "Important Events in American Labor History."

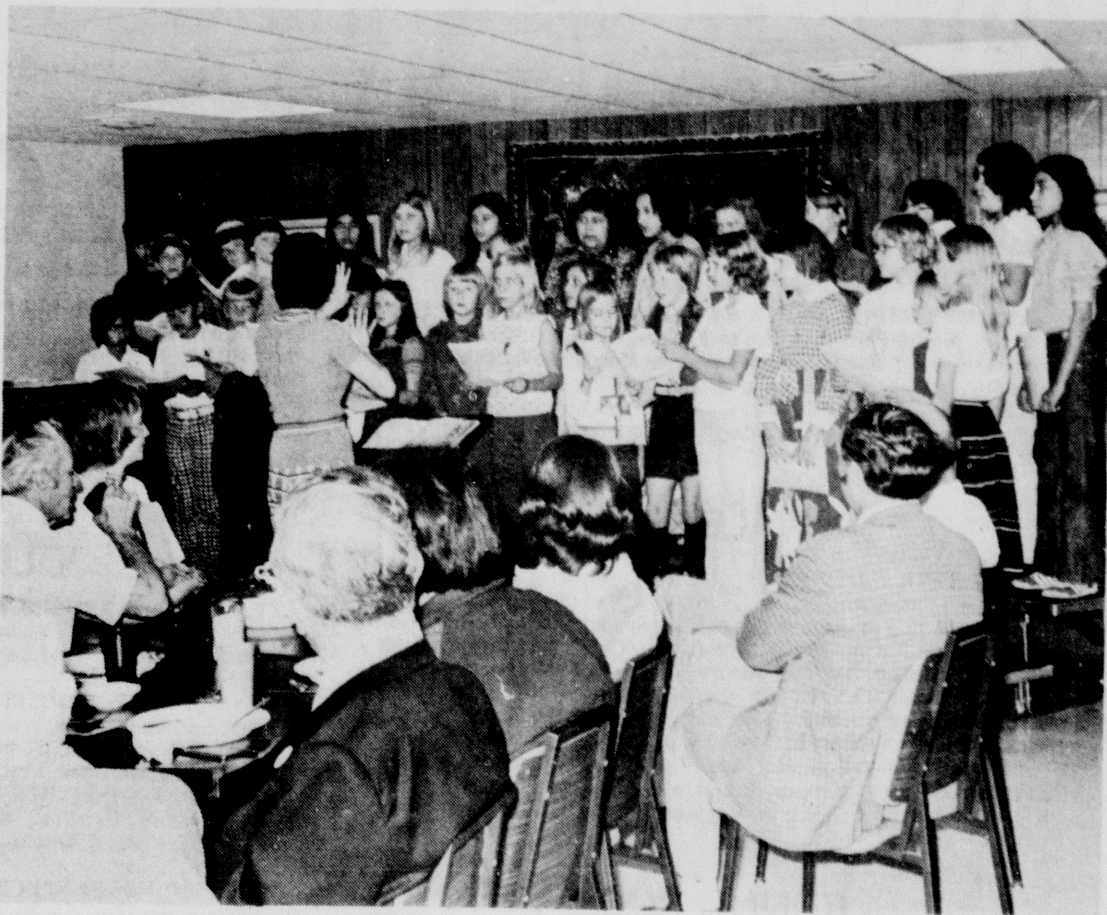

DENTAL HEALTH PROGRAM — Westside Intermediate School third graders hear a program presented by the Austin District Dental Auxiliary Wednesday afternoon. The bicentennial inspired program taught children the proper way to care for teeth and gums by brushing and flossing. Presenting the program were Linda Schneider, Judy Gerhardt, Ann Reese, Ann McKay, Harriett Ray and Debbie White.

sales, Van Johnson is certain to set a new attendance record for us and for future stars to shoot at."

"Send Me No Flowers" is the story of a confirmed hypochondriac (George Kimball, played by Van Johnson) who is convinced that his demise is near at hand, and the steps he takes to put his affairs in order. The plot thickens when a former classmate, a past rival for his wife's affections, arrives for a visit. George's good friend and lawyer's attempts to help (mowing the lawn, writing a rough draft of the eulogy,) further complicates the situation, especially since he is inebriated most of the time. The results of these shenanigans is an evening of rib-tickling, knee-slapping laughter and hilarity long to be remembered.

Van Johnson appears nightly (except Mondays) at 8:15, and at 1:30 p.m. on Sundays. Doors open for buffet dinner at 5:45 p.m. and 11:45 a.m. Sundays.

The Country Dinner Playhouse, Central Texas' only full-time professional theatre, is located at 12173 F.M. Rd. 1325 south of Georgetown, near Austin.

YOUNG SINGERS — Mrs. Sara White directs the fifth grade elementary choir at the Georgetown Optimist luncheon Tuesday. The choir sang a variety of songs and were accompanied on the piano by Albert Ainsworth.

Hutto trustees discuss school board elections

The Hutto Independent School District trustees met Wednesday night to view building plans with their architect, Bob Penrose of Austin, and to finalize specifics regarding the proposed classroom-library-cafeteria addition.

In accordance with the new election law, the trustees voted to hold school board elections in conjunction with the city elections Saturday, April 3. School board members up for election are Frank Kruse and Fred Klaus.

The expense of the election judge and two clerks will be shared jointly by the City of Hutto and HISD.

The board decided that after the football field was graded and shaped it would not be necessary to add sandy loam. At a previous meeting it had been decided that the field was hazardous because of the large crevices caused in it by lack of rain and lots of wear.

Bus routes were discussed. Superintendent Isham Coward said there was one long bus route with lots of children and one short route with less than a dozen children. He was hoping that the longer route could be changed some to shorten the route and the number of children it handled. Action was tabled to a later meeting.

Coward also told about a 20 hour safety driving course that bus drivers would be required to take.

Another concern of the school board is that gas and other items are being stolen from the buses. It was proposed that a fence be built around the bus storage area to deter thieves.

The American Association of Retired Persons will meet at 7 p.m. February 17 at Stonehaven Center. Dr. S. Wayne Reynolds, director of the Wesleyan Home, will be the speaker.

Plenty of ROOM!

Have you ever, when on a vacation, in the peak of the tourist season, looked and looked along the highway for a roadside park with an empty table so that your family could have a picnic lunch and rest? Then, of course, all might travel refreshed. How nice it is to come upon a park like this one, with the breeze blowing across the water.

Isn't it wonderful that there is always plenty of room at the House of God? There is always a church where you can receive spiritual food, and sweet rest of the soul. The church holds out its arms in welcome to all, inviting everyone to come and learn of God. Won't you attend this week?

"Come unto me, all ye that labour and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." Matthew 11:28.

Coleman Adv. Ser.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Jimmy Carter meeting in Taylor

The Jimmy Carter Presidential campaign in Texas has announced the formation of its delegate selection committee for senatorial district 18. The committee by law is charged with the responsibility of selecting 3 delegates to appear on the May 1, 1976 Democratic primary ballot committed to Jimmy Carter.

The senatorial district 18 meeting took place as prescribed by state law, Saturday, February 14, in Taylor in the American Legion Hall.

Delegate Selection Chairman for Jimmy Carter in District 18 is Bill Mintz, Box 504, Taylor, phone 352-6184.

Mrs. Miranda dies in hospital

Mrs. Catarina Miranda, 83, of 2008 Pine St., Georgetown died Wed., Feb. 11, 1976, at the Georgetown hospital.

Born May 17, 1892 of parents, Placida Chaves and Gusto Beltran, Mrs. Miranda married Apolinar Miranda who preceded her in death July 15, 1966.

Survivors are four sons, Domingo B. Miranda of Florence, Juan B. Miranda of Georgetown, Vincente B. Miranda and Julio Miranda of Houston; four daughters, Mrs. Felipa M. MOTHER AND DAUGHTER GRADUATES — Mary Lou (Mrs. Elmer) Pate and Linda Pate will graduate on May 15 from Mary Hardin-Baylor College with bachelor of science degrees. They wore their graduation regalia last Saturday for the first time when the seniors were honored at Charter Day, the homecoming of Mary Hardin-Baylor. Girls don't get too big for mothers to place the mortar board tassel just right! Linda will take the State Board examination in July for her R.N. Mary Lou got her R.N. from Scott and White in 1953. She has been a public health nurse in Williamson County, living in Georgetown, since 1962. She had always wanted her degree, so she decided the time was now, with Linda. She will return to her job at the Williamson County Health Unit after this leave of absence.

Leander church elects, installs new officers

The Sunday morning worship service of the Leander United Methodist Church was under the leadership of Lay Leader Curtis O'Neal and featured an impressive installation and dedication of the 1976 officers recently.

The installation of the officers for the Mary and Martha Circle, Leander United Methodist Women, was held with Mrs. Ellie Sils officiating.

A scripture reading and prayer was given by the Rev. R. Boyd Conner, a visiting retired minister from the Holston Conference covering parts of Georgia, Tennessee and Virginia. As each officer was called forward by Mrs. Sils, Mrs. Gayland Daugherty presented each with a "Something In Your Hand" gift appropriate to her office.

Then, led by the officers, the members of the M. and M. Circle formed a cross on the podium while Richard Schulze sang "Jesus, Keep Me Near The Cross."

The officers installed were Mrs. Beulah Long, president; Mrs. Billye Sogge, vice president; Mrs. Maloy Williams, secretary; and Mrs. Clara Hall, treasurer. In a brief response, Mrs. Long introduced the following Committee Leaders for 1976: ways and means committee, Mrs. Virginia Murchison and Mrs. Ginny Catthers, co-chairman; literature and publications, Mrs. Lucile Shows; hospitality chairman, Mrs. Ada Mae Faubion; and Year Book, Mrs. Jean Calvin.

Following this, O'Neal announced the official members of the Boards and Commissions of the church and asked the congregation to respond with them in a very meaningful dedication.

MRS. DOMINGO FRIAS was presented a plaque by the Georgetown Recreation Board on Tuesday night in memory of her husband, who helped organize sports and recreational activities here for over 14 years.

Docket down from Jan.

Sixty-six cases on the criminal docket for February represents a sharp decline from the 153 cases called January 21.

The February 18 Call of the Criminal Docket includes 35 driving while intoxicated (DWI) cases as compared to 75 DWI cases in January, and only 3 possession of marijuana cases compared to the 31 called last month.

Five cases of defrauding with a worthless check — down from 8, 4 speeding appeals compared to January's 9, and several hunting violation cases not repeated from the January call help explain the disparity between the two months.

THREE ASSAULT CASES and 4 cases of driving while license suspended represented one additional case each from the January totals.

One case of obtaining assistance by fraud and one case of criminal negligent homicide are included on the second docket of the year.

The county court will additionally handle 2 cases of theft by check during the February docket call, as well as one case each of fleeing from a police officer, reckless conduct, non-support, violation of a promise to appear and criminal attempt.

One case each involving an improperly loaded weapon, carrying an unlawful weapon and possession of a prohibited weapon are set for pleas of guilty or not guilty during the docket day.

CELEBRATES 99TH — Mrs. Margaret Richey was honored on her 99th birthday Thursday with a party by her family in her room on the fourth floor of the Wesleyan Home. Family and friends dropped by to wish her well. Mrs. Richey admires some of the gifts that she received.

Jarrell trustees set election order

Jarrell school trustees Thursday night set election of two board members for April 3.

The election, to be held in the Woodmen of the World Hall from 7 a. m. until 7 p. m., will place two members in the positions now held by Emil J. Danek and Jerry Cassens.

Gilbert Zuelhka will serve as election judge, with Inez Bridges and Albena Procter acting as clerks and Alline Zuelhka serving as alternate clerk.

The Board will canvass returns in a special meeting April 5 at 7:30 p. m.

Filing deadline for election is 5 p. m. March 3. Candidates may file with board secretary F. B. Schwertner or superintendent A. L. Lytle.

Board members decided candidate names will be placed on a first-come, first-serve basis, with the first candidate to have the first spot on the ballot.

Trustees voted in executive session to extend the contract of principal Donald Brown for another year.

A total of $35,201.19 in school district taxes were paid in the month of January. This leaves $20,433.37 delinquent.

Trustees passed the motion of board president J. R. Sybert to accept half payment from Leo Robinson of delinquent taxes owed by the Robinson estate. "I would rather have part of the money than none at all," said Sybert.

The board agreed on a measure to comply with federal regulations so as to remain eligible for the federal free and reduced price lunch program. The program pays the school system 69.25¢ for each free lunch served.

"The school system audit has to be into the Texas Education Agency by next Friday," said Lytle, "and the board needs to meet to approve the audit." Trustees agreed to meet in a special called session next Thursday night at 7 p. m. to review the audit before sending it on to TEA.

Lytle reported that one person has completed the bus driver training course. He said TEA requires all bus drivers to complete the course by 1977 so "all our drivers will have to take the course eventually."

Sybert reported a study of the changes to be made in enlarging the football stadium is underway. He said he expects to find out the needed changes by next meeting. "I told them that we needed to do the job as inexpensively as possible," said Sybert. Jarrell will expand to eleven man football next year and needs to enlarge the football playing field.

The board voted unanimously to pay all bills except two. Trustee C. Bud Stockton voted not to pay the bill for water on school lands when the water is not used, and to not pay a bill to Danek Hardware.

The board agreed to pursue an application of TEA funds to help pay for non-food items for the cafeteria. Items listed in the application include a refrigerator, freezer, hot water heater, and various utensils.

The Labor Department's Manpower magazine reports that the number of women employed in full-time white-collar jobs in the federal government increased by 38,843 between October 1973 and October 1974, according to a U.S. Civil Service survey. The survey attributed the advance to government-wide emphasis on the Federal Women's Program and International Women's Year efforts to consider women for employment in higher level positions.

It is now the Employment and Training Administration and no longer the Manpower Administration. The name of the 13-year old organization, created by the former Manpower Development and Train-

Florence trustees set board election

Florence School trustees set the school board election at Monday night's monthly meeting.

Voters will elect two candidates to places 4 and 5 on the board at the April 3 election. Those positions are now held by Raymond Smith and Douglas Baker who were appointed by the board to replace Louis French. French vacated the office when he moved out of the district.

School Superintendent Lee Roy Knauth told the board that electricians had repaired the electrical circuit in the vocational building and that he had paid the final bill on the building.

According to Jack Daniel, vocational teacher, too many wires had been put into the conduits and it caused the conduits to become hot. "And they're not supposed to do that," he said.

Trustees will hold a work session February 23 to get input and accurate information from local people on a report of the property values in the Florence School District.

The report will go to Texas Education Agency to help the agency equalize school taxes across the state. Reports will be based on a percent of market value.

Knauth reported the Green Thumb Project, which has retired county residents working on school and city projects, is progressing quite well. Nearly all of the classrooms in the Junior High School are finished being painted.

The school system only pays for the materials used in the project.

The PTA will have an open house at the March PTA meeting. Each teacher is scheduled to have some kind of program, but details have not yet been worked out said Knauth.

Knauth reported his attendance at a National Conference on Innovation and Change at Fort Worth last week. The Conference shared new ideas in teaching programs with the nearly 1,000 who attended.

The programs discussed come under money made available by the Title 3 program. Knauth said the service center in Austin could provide programs for several districts when one district could not afford it.

The board approved the one year contracts of the superintendent and the school principals.

Next month trustees will discuss personnel contracts.

Four file for three positions on LH board

Liberty Hill Independent School District board members met Monday night to discuss the school board election set for Saturday, April 3.

Positions up for election will be those of Russell Stultz, Maurice Fowler and Lloyd Fry. Four persons have filed for these positions thus far. Mac Williamson and Jimmy Spivey have filed for place 5, now held by Fry. James Pogue has filed for place 4 held by Fowler and Larry Floyd has filed for Stultz's position, place 3.

The board voted to select an election judge and two clerks.

City hires water supt.

Rex S. Wootan, Jr. from Llano is the City of Georgetown's new Water Utilities Superintendent.

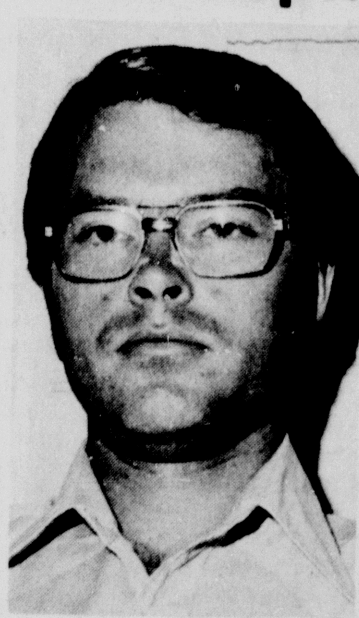

Wootan, 26, replaces Tom Harrison, who left the post to work for the Texas Water Quality Board.

He holds an Associate Degree in Applied Sciences from Texas State Technical Institute in Waco, where he studied water and wastewater treatment two years.

Wootan worked in the construction field one and a half years, supervising construction of wastewater treatment plants. He also worked for the City of Llano two and a half years and for the City of Lampasas as Water Treatment Supt. for eight months.

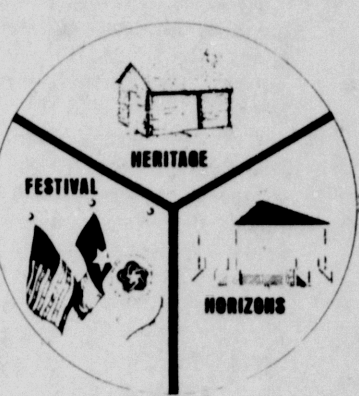

He will supervise water collection and distribution as well as water and wastewater treatment for Georgetown.

REX S. WOOTAN, JR.

The Wagner-Peyser Act created the United States Employment Service in the Department of Labor in 1933, according to the Labor Department's publication, "Important Events in American Labor History."

New financial stability peps up stock market

By David R. Francis

Boston

It is no wonder the stock market in the United States has gotten so excited. The economic picture on both sides of the Atlantic is beginning to look healthier.

Confidence is returning. "Things that matter a great deal are beginning to stabilize," notes Eugene Birnbaum, top economist of First National Bank of Chicago.

Economic scene

Mr. Birnbaum was referring to a new steadiness in the major financial markets, the "life blood" of the capitalistic system.

For example, the relationship of the U.S. dollar and the West German mark has been on an even keel for some months now. It had been fluctuating on the foreign exchange markets for more than two years, going through seven up-and-down cycles.

In Mr. Birnbaum's view, that new stability is important. The dollar bloc (the Americas and Japan) and the Deutsche mark bloc (most of Western Europe) play a dominant role in the world economy. The dollar is vital in finance. The mark is crucial in trade.

For the first time, Mr. Birnbaum continued, interest rates have gone down in the United States without prompting weakness of the dollar against the Deutsche mark. That is an indication of the better performance of the U.S. economy.

"The two currencies should hang together," Mr. Birnbaum puns, "or we will all hang separately."

Another major factor cheering up Wall Street has been the signs of moderation in the U.S. economic recovery. That may mean only a slow decline in the unemployment rate. But that doesn't bother the financial community much.

Wall Street's greatest worry has been the possibility of a rebirth of extreme inflation through excessive stimulation by the government. Now the financial community figures Congress and the administration will not overdo it.

For one thing, President Ford's effort to hold down federal expenditures is generally welcome. Wall Street observers doubt that Congress actually will keep spending down to $394 billion. But a little extra may not be all that bad, they reckon.

Easily as important, the Federal System continues to pledge itself to a "moderate" expansion of money and credit. Arthur F. Burns, Fed chairman, last week told the House Appropriations Committee that the central bank has "not the slightest intention of throwing caution to the winds and rekindling inflation" in an effort to spur the recovery.

Abroad, too, central bankers are showing some restraint on the printing of money (see accompanying table), if inflation rates are taken into account. The sharp decline in real money growth that occurred in 1974 and prompted the worldwide recession has been reversed by now, bringing about the recovery.

One danger spot, surprisingly, is West Germany where the money supply has been allowed to grow relatively rapidly. First National City Bank of New York predicts in its "Money International" letter that as a result:

1. The German recovery this year will grow at a vigorous 6 percent in real terms.

2. German inflation will turn up later this year or in 1977.

3. The Deutsche mark will weaken against the dollar this year, perhaps slipping to the neighborhood of 2.70-to-2.75 DM per dollar by the fourth quarter. It has been running currently around 2.60.

If that forecast comes true, the U.S. may once more become an economic rock of stability in the world. Inflation in this country is still declining with no signs yet of a reversal. The recovery is proceeding at a reasonable rate. Output increased at an annual rate of 5.4 percent in the last three months of 1975. The government's index of leading economic indicators last week suggested a continued but moderate advance in economic growth. Fears that the huge U.S. Treasury needs to finance the large government deficits would "crowd out" private demands in the capital market have not materialized.

These factors help explain why businessmen have showed a strong rebound in confidence, according to Dun & Bradstreet's latest quarterly survey of their expectations. They are anticipating a good quarter in sales, profits, new orders, and employment.

All that is why the stock market has pepped up.

★ Chandler expects ax

Frost said Chandler was hired as head coach in the fall of 1973. His two-year contract, renewable each year, was to run for the 1974-75 and 1975-76 school years.

Referring to the February 1975 school board minutes, Frost said, "You see this is nothing new."

Chandler expressed surprise at the move. "I'm still in kind of a daze," he said.

Frost emphasized that each of the high school coaches has an extended teaching contract.

"I was told that if I wanted to stay here, there would be a place for me in the system, just not as a coach," Chandler confirmed. He was not certain, however, whether he would accept a teaching job.

"I really don't know what I'll do," he said. "I've been here a long time and we've made a lot of friends. My son, Michael is a junior in high school and David is in the eighth grade here. Of course, this will influence my decision."

ASKED WHETHER he thought his two-year record as head coach (7-14) might cause him not to be recommended, Chandler said, "They just said I hadn't done a good enough job. That could cover a lot of ground."

Chandler has coached nine years in Georgetown. He succeeded Milton Denham, after serving as defensive coordinator and track coach for seven years.

Originally from Chicago, Chandler holds a 1962 bachelor's degree in physical education from Southwest Texas State University. He played football there and in the Marine Corps.

His first coaching job was in Harlingen, where he was eighth grade football coach in 1962. A year later he became a ninth grade coach in Waco, then took a job as junior varsity coach at Lockhart in 1965.

During the 1974 season, Chandler's varsity football team won two games and lost eight. Last fall the Eagle varsity went 5-6 and won the 12AAA North Zone championship.

Nelson 4th picnic set for Gonzales

Will the Fourth Annual Fourth of July Picnic be held in Liberty Hill as country singer Willie Nelson returns for a repeat of his July 4, 1975 performance?

Rumors that Nelson would stage a return to Williamson County began even as the 1975 celebration was being held, and are resurrected periodically.

"I THINK it would be very unwise for him to come back," says the man initially responsible for the prosecution of Nelson and Crackerjack Productions under the Texas Mass Gathering Act, Wesley Foust, county commissioner from the precinct in which the Annual Picnic was held.

Foust filed three complaints in county court July 9 charging that the producers of the picnic had "unlawfully, intentionally and knowingly provided a mass gathering without first obtaining a permit."

Rod Kennedy, spokesman for Nelson, said plans for the bicentennial picnic are focused elsewhere.

"WE UNDERSTOOD it (the Fourth Annual Picnic) was to be at Gonzales, Texas," Kennedy explained.

While the Nelson company, Crackerjack Productions, represented by Taylor attorney Tim Herman, pled guilty and was fined $1,000 plus $40 court costs December 8, Nelson, though scheduled to plea during January, has not yet done so.

"THE PROBLEM all along has been catching Nelson in town," explained Norman Manning, county attorney.

"It has been set for plea two or three times," Manning said, but added that each time Nelson has been unable to appear.

Plea bargaining between Herman and the county attorney resulted in plans for Nelson to plea guilty and pay a $1,000 fine. Maximum punishment under the law is a $1,000 fine or 90 days in jail or both.

Nelson is not eligible for probation under Texas law because he has received another misdemeanor probation within the last five years. Because of the plea bargaining, he will not receive a jail sentence, unless subsequent actions show he is acting in bad faith.

"OF COURSE," Foust agrees with the bargaining agreement, "it is cheaper to pay $2,000 than it was to prepare the grounds according to the Mass Gathering Act."

"IT IS JUST a matter of time before we accept his plea," Billy Ray Stubblefield, assistant county attorney, explains that despite the fact that Nelson still has not appeared to plea he is considered to be acting in good faith, negotiating through his lawyer for a workable plea date.

Agribusiness course to focus on lakes impact

Change likely to be generated by two new Williamson County lakes will be the topic for the 1976 Agribusiness and Community Development Seminar to be held at 7 p. m. Tuesday at the Community Building in Georgetown's San Gabriel Park.

A second "agribusiness short course" on land use planning will be held the following Tuesday, February 24, in Taylor. The sessions are sponsored annually by the Taylor, Georgetown, and Round Rock Chambers of Commerce and by the county Extension Service's Building, Community Resource Development, and Agribusiness committees.

"I EXPECT the course will stimulate a lot of constructive thought and planning here," said County Extension Agent John Wakefield. "We can learn a good deal from the experience of others in this field."

Leon Schrank, Executive Director of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) and chairman of the Georgetown Chamber's Agriculture Committee, will welcome guests and introduce the four speakers for the course.

Ron Zunker of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers will report on the status of the North Fork and Laneport reservoirs. Zunker is Project Engineer for the two lake developments. He will also describe the lakes, and plans for recreation and other facilities.

POSSIBLE IMPACT of the reservoir projects on economy and leadership in local communities will be discussed by Dr. Ruth Schaffer, professor of sociology and anthropology at Texas A&M University. Dr. Schaffer has directed research on these topics at over 140 reservoir developments throughout Texas.

Another A&M professor, James C. Stribling, will use slides to illustrate physical changes caused by new lakes elsewhere. Stribling is a parks and recreation professor.

Former County judge Peyton Walters will examine ways in which a county can deal with change. Walters served eight years as judge for Polk County, which borders on Lake Livingston in East Texas. He will explain how that county dealt with physical and political change stemming from lake development.

THE TAYLOR SHORT COURSE will begin at 7 p. m. February 24 at Rudy Mikeska's Barbecue.

Sol Bunnell, chairman of the Taylor Chamber's Agriculture Committee, will preside over that session.

Bob Armstrong, Commissioner of the state's General Land Office, will discuss land planning studies being conducted by his office.

The Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973 and the Flood Plain Insurance Program will be Everett Rowland's topics. Rowland is Director of Special Services for the Texas Water Development Board.

Kenneth Graeber, Project Director for the Governor's Office of Education Resources, will examine possible changes in land taxing procedures and their implications for land use.

The program will close with a review of opportunities for local action in resource management. Don Stence, Assistant Regional Planning Director for the Capital Area Planning Council (CAPCO) will review information and services offered by that agency, which is based in Austin.

Meetings will be open to the public, without charge.

Jury selection for Ortiz trial scheduled Tues.

Trial has been set for Tuesday for brothers Leonel and Fernando Ortiz, charged with three counts each of attempted capital murder after the July 16 shooting of undercover narcotics agent Richard G. Silvertooth just east of Florence.

ONE OF THE TWO men from Ft. Hood will be tried after jury selection is completed Tuesday, with the other being subsequently tried during the latter part of the week or during a later jury week.

Leonel, 25, and Fernando, 22, have been in the Williamson County jail since their arrest last July 16. Bond was set at $25,000 for each charge.

THE INCIDENT occurred at a roadside park on State Highway 195 as, according to DPS reports, two Department of Public Safety (DPS) undercover agents and the alleged drug dealers waited for a drug shipment which never arrived.

As the DPS agents called a halt to the wait, violence erupted. Silvertooth received head, stomach and hand wounds from a .25 caliber pistol. His partner, Troy Gene Braswell was treated for multiple lacerations of the face and head inflicted by a belt buckle or a pistol. Another man was wounded in the fray.

While Braswell is back on full-time duty, Silvertooth is on limited duty only, due to continued problems with his eyes, caused by injuries received in July.

SILVERTOOTH AND BRASWELL are among 25 witnesses subpoenaed by District Attorney Connor's office to appear Tuesday.

The 25 include Georgetown area residents Richard and Janie Burson, Bob Borders, Mrs. William J. Vancek, game management officers Michael G. Hutchison and Jim Lorenz, and William P. Chandler of the sheriff's department.

Seventeen other persons living outside Williamson County have been subpoenaed, including seven DPS men working as narcotics agents, plus a DPS firearms expert and a chemist.

equipped bombers, but needs manned bombers that can be recalled from a bombing target, if necessary.

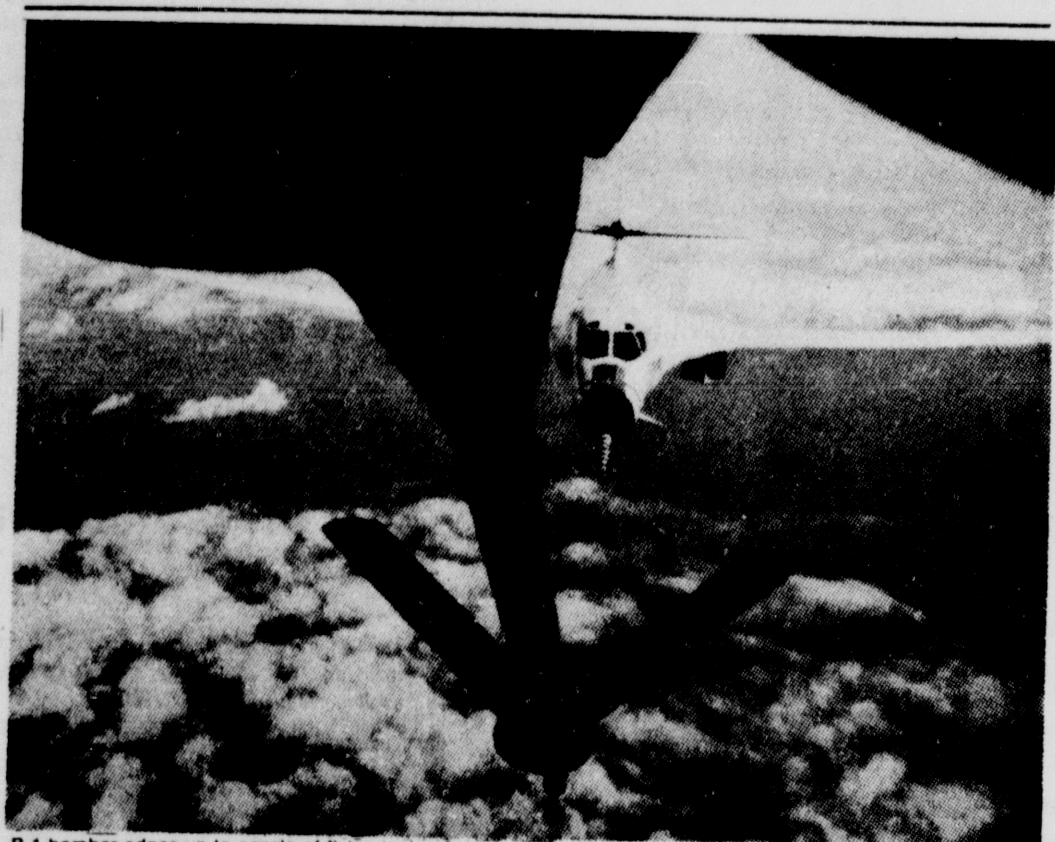

The Brookings study, prepared by two former Defense Department officials, argues that a full-scale B-1 program would be an inefficient way to update America's strategic bomber force. Rather, the report argues that a more economical approach would be to equip wide-bodied jets, such as the Boeing 747 or Lockheed C-5A, with cruise missiles, and have them fly near "enemy" country in a "stand-off" position.

Such a program would save $10 billion to $20 billion over the next 10 years, the report concludes.

It also challenges current Air Force contentions that a new bomber is needed now. The present nuclear bomber force will be structurally sound well into the 1990s, the study says.

In making their case, Air Force officials say the B-1 will be able to fly at subsonic speed into enemy air territory at particularly low altitudes, thus evading enemy air-defense systems.

The bomber would carry 24 SRAM air-to-ground missiles, and — although smaller than a B-52 — could carry a larger bomb load. It would be equipped with the latest electronic equipment, yet could take off from smaller runways.

Air Force B-1 bomber faces tough takeoff in Congress

Congress is now face to face with one of its toughest military decisions: whether to finance a fleet of 244 B-1 manned bombers, at an ultimate cost to taxpayers of more than $20 billion.

A new Brookings Institution study, released Feb. 9, argues that the B-1 program should be scrapped in favor of a "standoff bomber force" of planes equipped with long-range, cruise missiles able to penetrate enemy territory.

President Ford, in his new fiscal year, 1977, defense budget, is asking lawmakers for $1 billion for first-stage development of the aircraft. A final administration decision on the B-1, built by Rockwell International, is scheduled for November, 1976.

Liberal Democratic lawmakers, including Les Aspin of Wisconsin and Thomas Downey of New York, both on the House Armed Services Committee, say they will seek to have the B-1 program terminated.

For the Air Force, the manned bomber, as with the aircraft carrier for the Navy, and the tank for the Army, represents perhaps the "cornerstone" of military operations. The Air Force insists that, not only does the United States desperately need a replacement for its aging fleet of 400 Boeing B-52 nuclear-

Star-spangled knickknacks threaten bicentennial

By Clayton Jones
Staff correspondent of
The Christian Science Monitor

Washington

Tacky commercialism is stealing the spotlight on America's 200th birthday, and government is powerless to stop it, says U.S. bicentennial chief John W. Warner.

"Commercialism could be the Achilles heel that brings down the bicentennial," says Mr. Warner, head of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA).

A flood of star-spangled knickknacks are being sold to Americans on the eve of the nation's anniversary — plastic liberty bells made in Japan; "Spirit of 76" medals; and red, white, and blue teddy bears which chant the Declaration of Independence.

The issue of commercialism worries Mr. Warner, who says the problem shows how America's free-enterprise system works.

"We're called on to stop it, but the government can't stop merchants from selling tacky items off their shelves," Mr. Warner said in a recent interview. "If this is the life-style of America, then the government should not change it."

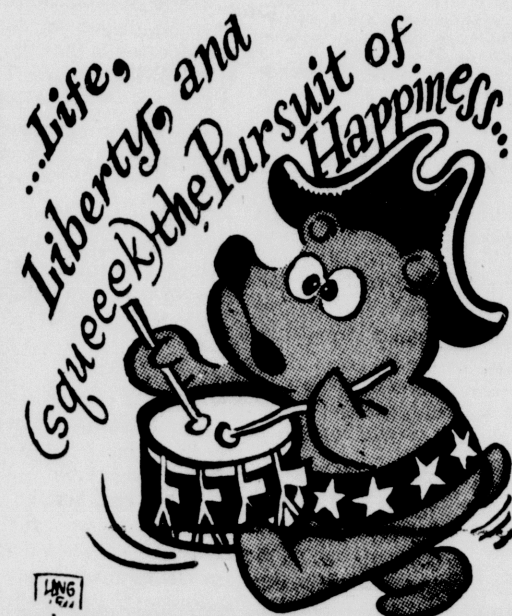

Instead, the ARBA, created by Congress in 1973 to organize the nation's celebration, has stamped its official logo on 102 "tasteful" memorabilia, such as an $85 Paul Revere lantern, and a less-expensive tri-corner hat.

President Ford Monday (Feb. 2) viewed a display of memorabilia made by American craftsmen for the bicentennial. Exhibited in Washington, the items range from crocheted flags to a carved Winchester rifle — all showing a "wholesome interest" by Americans in the historic celebrations, it was said.

Almost $1 million from royalties on sales of the bicentennial items — along with $9.5 million appropriated by Congress — is being channeled into 35,000 programs and events in 8,500 U.S. communities, touching at least 90 percent of the American population, said Mr. Warner in an interview.

"The bicentennial is the most massive volunteer network since World War II," the ARBA administrator said.

Local projects, such as restoration of old buildings, re-enactments of historic events, and even construction of new sewers, comprise a "marvelous mosaic" of ways to celebrate the nation's birthday, Mr. Warner points out. Meanwhile, some 30 to 40 major corporations are donating money to hold larger national programs.

"This bicentennial will be in Hometown, U.S.A.," Mr. Warner adds. "Those Americans sitting back and waiting for the heavens to open with one bicentennial spectacle will be disappointed."

Several groups, however, such as the Boy Scouts and radio disc jockeys, show an active interest in a linking of hands to form a human chain from coast to coast on July 4, 1976.

For American families, Mr. Warner suggests a four-day celebration over the Fourth of July weekend.

First day — recall the revolution's historic message, perhaps by reading the Declaration of Independence together.

Second day — take a new look at America's strong religious heritage, since the Fourth falls on a Sunday in 1976.

Third day — celebrate, with frivolity and fireworks, as so ordered by Founding Father John Adams in a letter to his wife, Abigail, upon signing the Declaration of Independence.

Fourth day — look at America's future and how to make it better.
